CTO Interview Presentation

AMH has a defined pathway to modernise its digital environment, with delivery targeted for April. This is an agreed organisational priority, and the incoming CTO will be expected to take ownership and lead its successful delivery.

Drawing on your experience leading digital, your technical expertise, and what you know about AMH and its strategic direction, what would your first 90 days as CTO look like?

In your presentation, please consider:

- Modernise first: How would you take ownership of the agreed pathway, maintain momentum and ensure a successful transition into a more contemporary, reliable and sustainable digital environment?
- Create confidence: How would you establish the leadership, governance, decision-making, technical assurance and delivery disciplines needed to give the CEO and Board confidence?
- Build for what comes next: Once the immediate modernisation is delivered, where could AMH take its digital capability next, and how could digital, data and technology become a stronger enabler of sustainable growth, commerciality, user experience, operational effectiveness while maintaining the integrity, quality and ethics at the heart of AMH's work?
- Future capability: What capabilities, operating model and ways of working would you build to ensure AMH can continue to evolve its digital environment at pace, while maintaining technical integrity, adaptability and sustainable investment?
- Organisation and resourcing: Referencing the proposed Digital organisational structure and drawing on your experience, what changes would you make to the additional roles, capabilities, capacity or resourcing, and why? Please outline what you would prioritise now, build over time, and source through internal capability, partners or specialist expertise.
- The next six months: What opportunities would you see, what would you prioritise, and what realities or constraints would you want the CEO and Board to understand?

We are interested in how you would combine delivery focus with strategic thinking, successfully leading the immediate modernisation while establishing a clear and credible pathway for digital to become a stronger enabler of AMH's future.

Presentation: 15 minutes, followed by questions.
